

Research Question – Example

If I were about to buy a new bike, there are the questions I would need to research before making a decision:

- What is the cost?
- Is it in stock?
- Can I borrow one for a demo ride?
- What colour options are there?
- What component options are there?
- What does it weigh?
- What wheel size is the best for me?
- How much travel do I need?
- What type of suspension suits my riding style and terrain the best?
- Is there a warranty?
- How durable is it?
- Are there reviews?
- etc.

For your PBL project, you should be considering each biome using a similar question format. My suggestion is that you design a list of questions as a group, and then each choose a biome for research. Finally, you can come together as a group to make a decision.
